This number is also considerably larger than it was last year. The exact number of extension students is not known, but it probably reaches 100 or more.

Beware! Bad English is about, and will get you if you don't watch out!

Husky Hikers Hike Hurriedly— Six Miles Seem Short.

The "husky hikers" left the College at 4:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening Oct. 26, for another one of their exciting hikes.

They walked thru pastures, over rough roads and smooth, until they finally reached their destination at a delightful spot just northwest of the water plant, where soon a crackling camp fire sent its flames into the air, cheering and warming the hearts of the hikers.

A delicious campfire supper was prepared by the hike leaders of last week, Margaret Remus and Alma Eaton.

About 7:30 the hikers returned to Maryville, after a hike of six miles, singing as they came along in groups of five and six.

There were 26 hikers on this trip. They were: Miss Mary MacLeod, director of the hike organization, Miss Beatrix Winn, Miss Minnie James and Margaret Remus, Alma Eaton, Helen Tebow, Grace Tebow, Jessie Murphy, Harriet aVuBuren, Ethel Andrews, Virgelia Birt, Marjorie Ewing, Irene Rausin, Ellen Mitchell, Lucile Wright, Alice Peery, Helen Baker, Florence Holliday, Mabel Cook, Maysel Laughlin, Donna Hinkle, Anna May Gillis, Maude Fleming, Mary Marshall, Lola Moore, and Inez Moore.

Poor speech is an ox-cart. Good speech is an airplane. Will you plod in the mud or will you fly?

Affirmative Wins Debate on League of Nations.

The affirmative, represented by John Phipps, Iva Lape, and Ira Fantz won the debate given last Wednesday when the League of Nations was discussed.

A good crowd attended. The speeches were uniformly good and interesting and there is a hopeful promise of strong debating teams, considerable interest being shown.

This Wednesday the class met and brought out the issues for the question "Resolved, that further restriction of immigration is imperative." November 10th the question will be debated. Those wishing to hear a good debate come to room 316 at 10 o'clock.

Distinct, accurate, pleasant speech is an index of efficiency. Mend your speech a little, lest it mar your fortunes.

Crusade Against Bad Speech Launched by S. T. C. Freshmen.

The Freshman Composition classes have been studying the movement for Better American Speech for the past week. This week they will continue the study.

The members of the classes have written various editorials on the celebration of Better Speech Week. The topic was taken from several different standpoints. The best of these are published on page four of this week's Courier.

The two divisions of the class will have a contest to determine which division speaks the better English. All of the members of each division will be watching the members of the other, in class rooms and elsewhere. Each mistake heard will be reported and credited to the person who made it. It will count against the entire class. The students are also watching for particularly good sentence structure and apt phraseology which will count positively for the student and his class. The students are going to watch the English of every person with whom they come in contact.

"The bad English spys are about, They'll get you if you don't watch out."

Watch your speech, Good Americans.

Miss Anthony Visits Eureka School.

Miss Hettie M. Anthony addressed a community meeting, at Eureka School, Oct. 12, when five schools came together. Various exhibits were shown by the schools; the Eureka School, with Mildred Broyles as teacher having an exhibit of unusually high quality, which speaks well for the excellent type of work being done by her. The community is intensely interested in the schools and their projects, co-operating with them in all lines of work.

Our Exhibit.

The pupils of the College Park School collected fruits and vegetables for an exhibit, which were placed in the cases on the second floor, during the Teachers Association.

The upper grades after studying the "Good Roads Amendment" made posters which were placed in the halls.

The third and fourth grades wish to thank the students of Miss Brunner's class who told them stories of early days in Missouri.

These two notes were written for the Courier by Mary Jackson, one of the pupils in the Demonstration School.

Bearcats Defeated By Blue Jays 18-0

Maryville Men Hold Opponents for Three Downs On 4-inch Line.

The Bearcats were defeated 18-0 by the Fulton Bluejays, Oct. 29. In the first quarter Maryville played a strong game and twice pushed the ball by line plunging to the Bluejay 10-yard line. Neither team could score in the first quarter.

Westminster came back strong in the second period and by end runs and forward passes made two touchdowns. They scored again in the third period.

The last quarter was fought out in the middle of the field, both teams being determined to hold the other, although neither had offensive strength.

This was the best game the team have played this season; both Coach Rice and Dr. Hobbs were pleased with the playing of the team. No substitutions were made in the game while Fulton played 16 men.

Hays, a new man on the team, played a good game as guard; the Wells brothers were in on the defensive, in fact every man on the team played a good game and the school is proud of them. It was an excellent showing for a team of new men to make against a team which has held Missouri Wesleyan to a 0 to 0 score.

Other teams in the conference which were beaten last week are: Tarkio, Central College, Missouri Valley and Drury.

This is Better Speech Week. What will you do for it?

Harriet Van Buren spent the week end, Oct. 22-24, in Hopkins, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy King. Mrs. King, formerly Miss Nova Shearer, is an alumna of this school.

Better speech, better jobs.

Prof. Hawkins stopped at a farmhouse one-half mile from Martinsville which proved to be the home of Lorraine Marrs who attended college here last summer.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1920.

Effective Speech is one of the true expressions of intelligence and culture and takes its place among the things that beautify the world.

"To Newspaper Editors."

We are all agreed that the American people should adopt better speech. To encourage better English, a certain week each year is set aside for observance of better speech. During this week it should be the aim of all good American citizens to observe their speech and strive to make it better.

The newspaper editors can exercise a great influence in creating a sentiment among the newspaper readers in favor of better speech. The most important thing in creating this sentiment is the using of good English in all sections of the newspaper. This influence will not only be felt by newspaper readers, who constitute a large people, but will be felt by many more people. The readers of the newspaper will pick up the habits of good English speech and pass them on to their neighbors who do not read the newspapers. This method of using good speech in all sections of the newspaper should be practiced at all times and not only during Better Speech Week. Newspaper editors should always guard against the use of poor English and slangy phrases to attract attention. During the week advertisements of Better Speech Week should be printed in the newspapers, in order to notify the public that they must strive to use better speech.—
Viva Graves.

How the Maryville Schools May Observe "Better Speech" Week.

Americans are said to be the most careless speaking race of people on earth. This criticism, so frequently made by Europeans, is deplorably just. By grammatical errors, faulty pronunciation and inaccuracy in the use of words, English is the most grossly mutilated of all languages.

Since this week is to be observed in America as "Better Speech" Week,

I would suggest that the schools of Maryville engage in a crusade against slang. This week could be designated as "dictionary week" in the schools. Since slang is used chiefly because it conveys vividness, children should be taught to enrich their vocabularies by the adoption of equally expressive English words as a substitute for slang. The dictionary is replete with synonyms which are far more elegant than the slang expressions which are so prevalent in our English conversation. The pupils may adopt slogans for their respective classes and these slogans may be posted in conspicuous places where they will attract public attention. In this way the children will acquire a taste for correct speech before they are old enough to master technical grammar and they will gradually learn to discard slang, which in the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes, is characterized as the "blank check book of intellectual bankruptcy."

—Alma Morris.

College students—did you ever think that a great responsibility rests upon your shoulders? Did you ever realize that it is for you to determine whether or not the next generation shall be a generation speaking correctly the English language. It cannot be disputed that the people of today are speaking deplorable English. The fundamental reason is that they were not placed in an environment where proper parlance reigned. Their parents, associates and teachers did not speak proper English.

You are to be the leaders and teachers of tomorrow. If you speak and use correct English the impression you make will be instilled into the lives of the future school children. If their parents, associates, and teachers speak correct English they will do the same.

This is Good Speech Week. Make it the beginning of a new era. Let it be said that the children of tomorrow speak correctly because the students of today did their bit to improve the condition.

—William Mapel.

Better Speech Week in the Grades.

The campaign to promote the use of better American speech, that will be carried on from November first to the eighth, should be furthered by every grade teacher in America. This work can be carried on in connection with the regular language and grammar classes. After the purpose and the aims of the campaign have been brought before the class, interest may be created in making posters. These posters are not limited to any one kind but offer opportunity for individual work. One may be a picture of a large auto filled with children who are throwing out cards marked with ain't, hain't, et, and other words often used incorrectly. For others the pupils may bring appropriate pictures from magazines illustrating different verbs. For instance: If a picture of same one eating is brought, paste it attractively on construction or drawing paper; under the picture print—

They ET it.

This may be carried out for pronouns that are used incorrectly as well as for verbs. The pupils should place some of these around the room and in the halls; others should be taken home to interest the parents.

Poster making is only a beginning to focus the attention of the pupil on the use of correct English. The work should be carried on thruout the year by contests, by programs, and by constant watchfulness and practice on the part of the teacher and the students.—Iva Lape.

Will You Help?

Better Speech Week begins November 1. Rural School Teachers, your opportunities to help in this educational project are great. You can make it a movement worth while. Begin to advertise it now. Teach it in the schools and homes by making posters and placards which can be distributed around over the community. Encourage your pupils to use better speech not only in school but at home also. Arrange your programs for the week so that the idea and practice of better speech can be brought out in all the subjects. Make it a week of compositions, speeches and debates with competitions in correct grammar. Have one day of celebration for the community with a program by your pupils as the main feature in which better speech is brought out. Don't hesitate but do your part now.

—Ida Steph.

Do you wish to be successful in business? The business world today demands good English.

Mr. Hawkins Attends Celebration at Martinsville.

The Consolidated School at Martinsville was recently visited by Mr. Hawkins. In speaking of his visit there he said, "I judge the possibilities for an educational awakening there to be very fine. The school sentiment there is tremendous." This, he said, was evident by the following: On the day of the entertainment there the building was packed with interested persons, despite the fact that it was pouring rain; also the whole town celebrated when the news was received that their school had been replaced upon the list as a first class high school.

The entertainment which Mr. Hawkins attended was in the nature of a Halloween party and general neighborhood celebration. The program was so arranged that each high school class and each of the country schools participated. Mr. Hawkins made a short speech in keeping with the program.

The Martinsville school is located in Harrison County about twelve miles northwest of Bethany. Mr. Hawkins states that the equipment is excellent being valued at about $3500. However they are in need of a new building as the school is overcrowded.

Mr. Carter, a former student of the College, is County superintendent of Harrison county and there is a great deal of interest manifested in consolidation at that place.

The teaching staff at Martinsville is as follows: Myrtle McPherron, 1914, superintendent of the high school and of five country ward schools; Mrs. A. J. Cauffman, B. S. 1919; Dorothy Dale, B. S. 1920; Cleo Lesan Tobias, 1917. They have in addition to these a teacher of Vocational Agriculture who is not an S. T. C. graduate.

Good English is largely a matter of habit. Get the habit.

Assembly Notes.

Rev. Mapel of the M. E. Church South, spoke to the students and faculty at the regular assembly, Oct. 26. The theme of his talk was "How to get along well in life." He said, "There are two inalienable rights of an individual: the right to be happy and the right to succeed." "Most failures in life are not due to a lack of capacity in the individual but to a defect in morals. Energy and possibilities have been put in the wrong channels instead of in the lines of constructive activity." "What every individual needs is the proper discipline of their powers." "Find out what you can do best and by energy and perseverance your life will be useful and happy."

A portion of the assembly hour was devoted to singing. Dean Colbert made various announcements after which John Price made a short talk urging the students to purchase tickets for the Lyceum Course.

Love your national language enough to speak it well.

Philomatheans Have Picnic.

The Philos treated themselves to a picnic, Friday evening, Oct. 22. As soon as the football game was called off they gathered together and went out to the grove.

Miss MacLeod chaperoned the party and took active part in the fire-building and the preparations for supper.

The committee had made ample provision for the appetites of everyone and the feast was much enjoyed. The telling of the Philo story, which dealt impartially with luskys, hikers, fearful dragon, and an imprisoned maid, closed the enjoyable event.

THE STROLLER.

The Stroller is anticipating a good time next week when he can attend the teachers' meeting in Kansas City and incidentally see all the new winter styles. He is wondering if he will see any hats down there that have a rag doll for a streamer like some of the hats do in Maryville. If you have not seen these speak to Dick Runyon at once.

Talking of styles, did you notice that Joe Wells has a new style nose? The Stroller wonders if playing football causes all Joe's troubles?

Another thing has been puzzling the Stroller. Why is Mabel Cook so grouchy? You did not know she was, well, she is for when a well meaning student told her to powder her nose because it was shiny, she used a bit of sarcasm on him that hurt his feelings. The Stroller felt hurt too.

Dr. Keller seems to be a hoodoo to Fords. Maybe he forgot to take his rabbit foot along; anyhow it took four Fords to get him to his destination. But that is better than Mr. Wells can do because the Stroller was told that he was seen to arrive at Edgerton for extension class on foot.

Have you noticed Miss DeLuce's new Ford? The Stroller almost saw it the other day but it flew by too quickly.

A terrible scandal came very near being started last week when one of the faculty saw Jeannie Blacklock extract a paper from Miss Winn's coat pocket but the Stroller nipped it in the bud because he had heard Miss Winn order her to get some copy that was in her coat.

The Stroller can tell you a dark secret tho and that is if you really want to be entertained get Miss Margaret James to read for you and Miss Minnie James to sing; yes he has his dope right. And say he has found out that there are seven real high class actresses among the faculty, if you are all good he may reveal their names.

The Stroller heard that Miss Dow was planning to put one of her French classes in a sack and shake them up in order to tell which should be flunked and which passed but he was so busy trying to learn how to vote that he did not have time to trace the rumor to its source.

American Speech for American People.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Garten were in Maryville, Sunday, Oct. 24, visiting their daughters Lethel and Mildred who are attending the College.

Paul Pickens went to Excelsior Springs, Saturday, Oct. 30, to visit his brother Vern Pickens who is teaching in the high school at that place. Paul went to Excelsior Springs from Fulton after the S. T. C. Westminster football game.

DEPARTMENTAL NOTES.

Education.

Plans are being made for the class in Rural Methods to make observations in the College Park School on Methods of Reading.

Agriculture.

The class in Animal Husbandry inspected the Chester White hogs in Gray's sale yard last week. The hogs were the sale offerings of Mr. J. H. Harvey and of Mr. F. B. Goodspeed.

In threshing soy beans on the school farm this year it was found that the beans cut and bound with a self-binder were more easily and quickly handled than those cut with a mower.

Physical Education.

A match game in hockey was played Friday, Oct. 29 at 2:30 between the Cox and Harding teams. The captain of the Cox team is Esther Foley, and the captain of the Harding team is Iva Lape.

The Girls' Gym will soon be completed as improvements have been begun. The heating system is now installed in the dressing rooms and soon the gym will be equipped with some new dressing rooms and with showers. These will be of great benefit to the work of the Physical Education Department.

Commerce.

The commercial department will have charge of shorthand and type-writing contests which will be open to the high school students of the district. They will be held in the spring at the time of the other high school contests.

Physical Geography.

The high school class in physical geography took their first field trip Oct. 26. Headward erosion was the principal subject studied. They saw many other interesting illustrations of their work. Several members of the class returned covered with stick-tights.

Music.

The music appreciation class, under the direction of Miss Margaret James, is making a study of the pipe organ at the Christian church.

The girls' chorus is working each week, and several new members have been added.

The Maryville band, under the direction of Mr. Kutachinski, has closed a very successful and enjoyable season of outdoor concerts. They are now making plans for their winter works, a part of which will be to furnish indoor concerts at various times.

The College orchestra is working hard every Wednesday, in order that they may put on a first class recital for the students and faculty and music lovers in general.

All the music classes are growing as the students realize more each day the opportunities which the Conservatory offers.

Art.

The advanced commercial art class has been doing some very interesting work. The newspaper advertisements are planned, the window decorations are worked out and then both are used downtown.

Newspaper advertising is truly an art problem. The lettering is selected which is based on psychology, English and art so that it will reach the people. A study of newspaper advertising teaches the manner of wording, desirable places on the newspaper, the arrangement of headlines, arrangement of letters in different shapes and the treatment of the border. The names of the different kinds of alphabets and the most desirable ones are studied. A student completing the course should be able to make a "layout" of any kind of advertisement.

Window decoration involves the pleasing arrangement of objects. The attractive forces of various colors and the uses of colors with objects as a prominent attractive force or as a background are studied. How to make objects more prominent by the proper contrasting colors is planned out in the study.

Only the more progressive schools are offering such courses as it is a very recent development of art.

Library.

Libraries need cleaning and going over just as any other part of an institution do. And that is just what Mr. W. A. Boyer is doing to the library here. He rebinds all the books that need rebinding. His bringing the bindery here is much cheaper than sending the books to a bindery. The length of time that the book is out of use is much shorter, too. Within two or three days the book, newly bound, is ready for use again.

Biology.

Biology II is working a series of indoor garden experiments and a series of hygiene and physical experiments.

Each member of the class is to give this week an illustrated lecture on one of the following subjects; animal homes; camp craft; control of insects; ornamental planting; rural sanitation; urban sanitation; protective devices among animals; protective devices among plants; bird migration; economic value of birds; bird conservation; nature photography; garden craft.

Many of the students are passing the mid-term exams with "awful success."

Speak good English.

Miss DeLuce and Miss Dow were entertained at dinner Thursday evening, Oct. 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Colbert, the occasion being Mr. Colbert's birthday.

Good English can never die. Don't try to murder it. Speak good English and your English will speak for you.

Who's Who in S. T. C.

John England is.

There are two classes in every struggle. Some that fight and some that support the fighters. England is of the class that fight. On Tuesday, October the twenty-sixth, this little Bearcat tackled a man in scrimmage. On the very eve of the Westminster game, a knee and a collarbone came together. The knee proved the stronger and the collarbone parted and went both ways.

"It hurts like the dickens!" said John with a smile, next morning, but never-the-less it didn't keep him from taking that chemistry test.

Business demands correct speech.

Mr. Foster was unable to meet his extension classes at Pottsburg, Saturday, Oct. 23, because of a wreck on the railroad.
